

About NCIS on the GO

To provide greater convenience to our patients, the National University Cancer Institute, Singapore (NCIS) is pleased to offer simple nursing procedures and treatment services at various locations across Singapore. A trained oncology nurse from the NCIS Community Care team will be scheduled to provide the service at the pre-determined location and the procedure is as safe as going to the hospital. The community charge is usually chargeable however, from 1st September 2019, it is currently waived off for a limited period of time till further notice. Patients may choose to go to any of our scheduled locations to have their nursing procedures or blood test at least one day prior to their consultation or chemotherapy treatment. By having their blood test done one day prior to the consultation or treatment, patients do not have to arrive two hours earlier on the day of consultation or treatment, thus reducing their wait time at the clinic. Currently, NCIS on the Go also provides subcutaneous chemotherapy treatments which includes Azacitidine and Bortezomib in order to allow patients to spend lesser time on travelling and waiting at NUH.

FAQs

Q: Why should I choose this external service?

A: This service is to provide our patients with an alternative location closer to their homes. Currently, patients travel to the hospital regularly and wait approximately 1-3 hours for simple procedures or blood results before they proceed for their doctor appointment or treatment and this will help ease/reduce the long waiting time in our clinic.

Q: What are the days and hours of operations?

A: Please refer to the schedule which is updated periodically.

Q: What number do I call to make an appointment?

A: To make or change an appointment, please call or email our Cancer Appointment Line at 6773 7888 or email us at CancerApptLine@nuhs.edu.sg.

Q: Do I need to bring along any documents?

A: Yes, please bring your NRIC for verification purpose.

Q. What to expect after appointment has been scheduled?

A: Turn up for your appointment at the scheduled location and our trained Oncology Nurse will perform the procedure on you. Once your blood has been taken, the nurse will then send back the blood for processing to our NUH Lab. The result will be ready for the doctor/nurses to view by the time you have your consultation with your doctor or treatment the next day.

Q: In which other areas is this service provided?

A: We update the schedule periodically; do check our website for the latest schedule.

Q. How will I be billed and make payment for my blood test?

A: No payment is required on the day you do your blood test in the community. You will be charged for your blood test on the day of your consultation or treatment day. The front counter will bill you accordingly to the treatments carried out.

Q: What is the charge for this service? Will it be same as taking my blood test in the hospital?

A: The community charge is currently waived off from 1st September 2019 till further notice. Prices for services and procedures done will be charged the same as in the hospital.

Q. What if I forgot my appointment?

A: You can call our Cancer Appointment Line to make an appointment at Cancer Centre 2 hours before your doctor's consultation to do your blood test.

Q. How will the front counter staff know that I have already done my blood tests at the community locations?

A: Please do inform the front counter staff on the day of your appointment for your consultation with the Doctor or treatment.

Q. Will the environment of the external location lead to a false result of my test or have a negative impact on my well-being?

A: This procedure is as safe as going to the hospital. Conducting it at external locations would not lead to false results, nor would it have a negative impact on your well-being.

Q. Can this service to be done more than one day prior to my consultation or chemotherapy?

A: If your follow up is a consultation, your blood test can be done up to one week prior your doctor visit. However, if your follow up consists of Chemotherapy, the procedures must be done one day prior. Please check with your physician if you are uncertain.

Q. Can I enjoy this service as a walk in patient?

A: This service is strictly by appointment. To make or change an appointment, please call or email our Cancer Appointment Line at 6773 7888 or email us at CancerApptLine@nuhs.edu.sg.
